

PA Attorney Susan Cirilli Addresses Medical Marijuana in the Workplace

September 18, 2017

Pennsylvania and New Jersey-licensed attorney Susan M. Cirilli writes about issues that ensnarl employers surrounding medical marijuana use among legally carrying card holders.

Susie addresses issues of employees who may legally be entitled to use medical marijuana working within the boundaries of Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) rules and may be under the influence while on the job. She identifies how employers can implement testing requirements, accommodate individuals who are certified to use marijuana, and address termination of employees who violate substance abuse policies.

To read Susie's Litchfield Alert including the state and federal laws potentially affected by Americans with Disabilities Act claims, click here or contact Susie Cirilli to learn more.

RELATED PRACTICES

Employment and Labor
Law

RELATED ATTORNEYS

PDF